

Extra Credit Opportunity

Attend a World Press Photo exhibition

Attend a World Press Photo (WPP) exhibition and make a picture at the exhibition that clearly illustrates your attendance. Your picture could be a selfie in the exhibition space or something else; just make sure the image clearly shows that you were there.

WPP runs the largest, most important international photojournalism competition in existence. The organization's exhibitions are an excellent opportunity to see a selection of modern, high quality photojournalism made in the past year.

Requirements

- Attend a WPP exhibition
 - A list of worldwide exhibitions is here: <https://www.worldpressphoto.org/exhibitions>
 - There is currently an exhibition in Guangzhou:
<https://www.worldpressphoto.org/exhibitions/2017-exhibition/guangzhou>
 - It is open through November 19.
- Make one photograph at the exhibition that shows that you have attended and seen the work.
 - Include your student ID number and the name of the exhibition in the image file name.
 - Be creative and show me that you saw the exhibition.
 - Submit the picture via iSpace in the extra credit section.

Why Go?

Your extra credit activity will be considered for the class participation portion of your grade at the end of the term. If you have weak assignment scores, extra credit opportunities can help your class grade.
